PROFILE SUMMARY

I stepped into my first office at 18, fresh out of high school, and got thrown straight into a real project. Looking back, that sink-or-swim moment set the tone for everything that followed. Since then, I've built everything from straightforward marketing sites to complex backend systems, mobile apps, and Shopify applications.

What really shaped me was being trusted early on to make architectural decisions and set up projects from scratch. I've worked solo, in tight 2-person teams, and in groups of 20+. I've inherited messy legacy codebases and started fresh greenfield projects. Each taught me something different about building software that lasts.
